LETTER FROM THE PROFESSOR

Hello, hello, all you lovely people!

I'm Professor David Emmanuel Gray and I'd like to welcome you to Ethics!

As you will soon find out, I'm extremely passionate about the study of ethics, and so I look forward to guiding you through this wonderful field. By this May, I hope you have the practice and confidence to deliberate on your own, and with others, about difficult moral issues.

My teaching philosophy is simple: You arrive as a humble lump of coal, but with the careful application of heat and pressure, you will become a diamond. I will do my utmost to fuel your fire and passion for ethics, encouraging you to successfully overcome the stress and pressures of this course. However, if you ever feel about to crack, let me know—I want you to come out of this shining bright!

Throughout this learning process, I embrace the fact that there is nothing embarrassing about making mistakes when doing something new. Indeed, such mistakes are perfectly normal.

If anything, I encourage you to make at least one truly spectacular mistake this semester—because that's precisely when we usually learn the most!

This is why I have structured the course to allow you to mess up while also having opportunities to recover. For example, you will earn “philosopher’s stones” that you may use for extensions, redoing unit exams, and making up for missed social annotations and quizzes. We all have bad days, but those days should not be the ones that ultimately define us.

Finally, I know that you may only be taking this course as part of a Pathway. There is nothing wrong with that! Even so, I encourage you to keep an open mind, take risks, express your views, challenge me when you think I err, and reflect on how the course material applies to the issues you find important. Do all that, and I promise that you will leave the course with a greater appreciation of ethics and its role in your life. Who knows, you might even decide to take more advanced courses in ethics!

Otherwise, please don't be shy and never be a stranger. Always feel free to reach out via Email, Zoom, or my Student Meeting Hours (Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 11:30AM to 12:30PM). I am always glad to respond to your questions or to simply chat.

Take care and stay safe!

Ethics! OVERVIEW

What have we gotten ourselves into?

It's 🔥🔥

ETHICS is the branch of philosophy examining the nature of morality, good and evil, and right and wrong action. At bottom, ethics addresses the most practical question: “What ought I do?” As such, this is not some hypothetical concern, but something with which we all continually wrestle, as we go about our day-to-day lives. As such, ethics is an inherent and inescapable part of human existence.

In this course, we will look at several influential attempts to answer that practical question of ethics. Throughout, we will discover how these divergent, and often conflicting, approaches frame present-day discourse surrounding a variety of issues—such as ghosting, religion, drone attacks, gaslighting, implicit bias, gender quotas for university admissions and job hiring, world poverty, eating factory-farmed meat, human rights, alcohol and sexual consent, course grades, and ethical leadership.

As you will soon see, the most important issues in ethics rarely have obvious right and wrong answers. Nor is there a simple “ethics checklist” to consult when you are confronted with a hard choice or difficult moral dilemma. There are instead many different reasonable approaches, and those approaches may often conflict with one another.

Therefore, it is ultimately up to you, and you alone, to reflect on and reach your own conclusions on these matters. This means that I am not here to tell you what is right and what is wrong. After all, who am I to tell you what it is you should value for your life?

As a result, my primary goal is to cultivate your cognitive and affective capacities for practical deliberation on your own, and with others, about moral issues. This will equip you to better understand these issues for yourself and, in turn, meaningfully engage with others. After all, only the hermit lives in isolation. For the rest of us, we must be prepared to secure the legitimate cooperation of those with whom we may disagree.

This is a basic principle of ethics, and I will do my best to immerse you in the deliberative process it entails. I cannot think of a better way to assist you in becoming a future leader in your communities and chosen fields of study.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

This course introduces you to the philosophical study of ethics and some of its practical applications. In addition, you will learn (I hope!) more about yourself and your place in the world.

To help guide us, this course has five learning outcomes. By this May, you will be able to...

1. Identify and employ common terminology for philosophical approaches to ethics,
2. Explain and summarize arguments within philosophical texts,
3. Apply important ethical concepts and theories to various hypothetical and real-world situations,
4. Assess competing claims concerning the demands that morality places on your actions and decisions, and
5. Reflect on your own assumptions and form more considered judgments on moral issues.

I have designed all course activities with these outcomes in mind.

LEARNING RESOURCES: FIND THEM ALL ONLINE!

There are no textbooks to buy for this course. The course website will have all the readings along with some reading questions for you to consult. I expect you to read that material according to the class schedule.

The course website will also have activities and all other materials, along with any updates to our schedule.

COLLEEN HAYES / NBC

ANNOUNCEMENTS & OTHER COMMUNICATION

About twice a week, I will email important course information to you. So be sure to routinely check your UB email for updates. Otherwise, I will gladly answer your questions, discuss your work, or respond to your concerns. Please email, book an appointment with me on Zoom, or drop by my office in 118 Park Hall.

COURSE STRUCTURE

COLLEEN HAYES / NBC

THIS is a fully online course. It does not meet regularly on Zoom. Instead, your learning will be conducted asynchronously on the course website. Even so, I have structured this course so that you have opportunities to learn in a community with your peers.

One thing to note is that this is not a self-paced course. Each week you will complete two assigned modules and discuss the material with your classmates on Perusall. Every few weeks there will be a unit exam to check on your progress.

All that said, don't panic! This may seem like a lot of work, but throughout the course you will earn philosopher's stones that can be used to turn in work late, redo unit exams, and make up for missed social annotations and quizzes. In addition, the grading scheme is extremely flexible in how you earn points towards your final grade.

Throughout this course, I want you to not only learn from me but also from your interactions with your classmates. Indeed, like any activity, you get better at reasoning about ethics the more you actually do it with others. As a result, the quality of the course depends critically on your individual attention and participation. The purpose of us studying together as a class is to learn and engage with each other.

To encourage you in all this, I will do my best to make your time devoted to this course worthwhile and well spent.

I will also take special care to create an environment where you feel comfortable asking questions and expressing your own views with me and your classmates.

However, a few words of warning about this format:

- Philosophy is a full-contact sport, but conducted as cooperative processes. You and your classmates must wrestle together with difficult moral issues, while not attacking each other. Disrespectful behavior will not be tolerated.
- To get the most out of this class, please do not confuse this cooperative style of learning with mere conversation or informal, organized chatting.

Wait, REQU

will measure your progress and success in this course by having you engage in these three types of activities:

- Participation in social annotating the readings on Perusall, which has you work with your classmates in order to better understand what that material is trying to convey while applying it to your own lived experiences;
- Weekly quizzes embedded in my videos and posted at the end of each module, that check your basic understanding of that material; and
- Unit exams that have you demonstrate your knowledge of key terminology and the arguments from the reading, apply course material to new cases, compare competing claims about ethics, and justify positions of your own on moral issues.

As you complete these activities, you will earn philosophy experience points. You have entered this class as a New Philosophy Student, but as you do activities and earn philosophy experience points you will advance to higher levels. The level at which you end the semester will determine your final letter grade in the course.

This philosophy experience point structure means that you are free to choose some activities and skip others. You are also free to decide how much you want to engage in the course.

Some students will reach the level of Unemployed Philosopher and then vanish. Fair enough! Others will not relent until they are Philosopher Supreme. Great—go for it! In the end, I will support whatever choice you make.

9,500 or higher	13	Philosopher Supreme	A+

UB does not allow final course grades to be an A+ or a D-. Therefore, a final course grade of an A+ will be assigned an A and a final grade of a D- will be assigned a D.

THIS course consists of 25 modules across 6 units. Each module will cover a specific topic within ethics and consist of the following activities:

- A social annotations reading activity with reading questions,
- Panopto video lectures with embedded quiz questions, and
- A module quiz.

You are expected to complete 2 modules a week, according to the class schedule. Completion of a week's modules is due on Saturday at 11:59PM (midnight), Buffalo (Eastern Standard) Time.

Each unit ends with a unit exam, due on the Monday after that unit is finished, at 11:59PM (midnight), Buffalo (Eastern Standard) Time. Each unit exam will be made available 12-hours before it is due. You will then have the full 12 hours in which find a time to take the exam.

If you run late, remember that all activities (including exams) have an automatic, additional 24-hour grace period.

COLLEEN HAYES / NBC

24-Hour Grace Period

All activities (including unit exams) have an automatic 24-hour grace period. This means that you are free to finish any activity up to 24 hours after its official due date/time without penalty. In short, all activities have an automatic 24-hour extension.

COLLEEN HAYES / NBC

Don't Panic, You Got This!

Ethics! GAME CHANGERS

When things get tough, you have the power!

YOU initially have 3 philosopher's stones to use during this course. Based on your performance on the social annotations and the unit exams, you will earn even more philosopher's stones. You may then exchange your philosopher's stones to unleash special philosophical powers!

EARNING PHILOSOPHER'S STONES

You will earn additional philosopher's stones based on the philosophy experience points you earn on each module's social annotations activity and on each unit exam.

Please note that any philosophy experience points earned through the Decipher Script and Reverse Time powers do not count towards earning new philosopher's stones.

USING PHILOSOPHER'S STONES

As you earn philosopher's stones, you may exchange them to unleash special philosophical powers. For each stone that you do not use by the end of the course, you will gain 20 philosophy experience points.

WORK HARD, EARN STONES, AND YOU MAY UNLEASH PHILOSOPHICAL SUPERPOWERS!

PHENOMENAL PHILOSOPHIC POWERS!

TIME STOP (M)

Cost: 1 philosopher's stone.
Area of Effect: 1 module.
Duration: Up to 48 hours.

You select 1 module and give up 1 philosopher's stone. You then gain an extra 48-hour extension for completing that module. Please note that this is in addition to the automatic, additional 24-hour grace period.

If you have enough stones, you may use this power multiple times for additional 48-hour extensions on the same module.

TIME STOP (E)

Cost: 1 philosopher's stone.
Area of Effect: 1 unit exam.
Duration: Up to 6 hours.

You select 1 unit exam and give up 1 philosopher's stone. You then gain an extra 6-hour extension for completing that exam. Please note that this is in addition to the automatic, additional 24-hour grace period.

If you have enough stones, you may use this power multiple times for additional 6-hour extensions on the same unit exam.

BORROWED KNOWLEDGE

Cost: 2 philosopher's stones.
Area of Effect: All the quizzes for 1 module.
Duration: Instantaneous.

You select 1 module and give up 2 philosopher's stones. You then gain the full 100 philosophy experience points for all that module's quizzes.

REVERSE TIME

Cost: 6 philosopher's stones.
Area of Effect: 1 unit exam.
Duration: Up to 1 week.

You select 1 unit exam and give up 6 philosopher's stones. You then have up to 1 week—from when it was graded—to redo that entire exam. The points you earn on this second attempt—regardless of whether that new number of points is higher or lower than your original number—will completely replace the points you earned on your first attempt.

Reverse Time may only be done once for any given unit exam.

DECIPHER SCRIPT

Cost: 2 philosopher's stones.
Area of Effect: All the social annotations for 1 module.
Duration: Instantaneous.

You select 1 module and give up 2 philosopher's stones. You then gain the full 100 philosophy experience points for that module's social annotations.

Ethics! POLICIES

To keep things in order.

LATE SUBMISSIONS

Online classes become quite overwhelming when deadlines are missed. In such situations, it is easy for coursework—and anxiety!—to pile up. This is why I expect that you complete assigned activities on time.

That said, you have lives outside of this course and there may be times when you cannot get things done as expected. If that happens, do not panic! The automatic, additional grace period gives you some extra time and philosopher's stones can get you even more. If the situation is truly extraordinary, then contact me about a reasonable accommodation for getting caught up.

REASONABLE ACCOMMODATIONS

You are a human being with all the usual challenges associated with human finitude. Illness, family emergencies, job interviews, other professors, and so on will inevitably lead to legitimate conflicts over your time. If you expect that you will be unable to complete your coursework on time, please notify me as soon as possible and we can agree on a reasonable accommodation.

Please recognize that most reasonable accommodations will require that you use philosopher's stones, receive reduced points for an activity, or do additional work. This is done to keep things fair between you and your classmates—after all you are asking for extra time that they do not get. So when you propose a reasonable accommodation, please reflect on what would preserve that fairness.

ACCOMMODATIONS FOR EQUITABLE ACCESS

The University at Buffalo is committed to providing reasonable accommodations for equal access to this course for all students. To access accommodation services, you must initiate the request with Accessibility Resources at Student Life.

If Accessibility Resources determines that your request for accommodation is reasonable, they will provide you with an Accommodation Memo. Keep in mind that you will need a new Accommodation Memo each semester. (If you are a returning student and your needs have not changed, you can simply contact Accessibility Resources for an updated Accommodation Memo.)

Once you receive your Accommodation Memo, it is your responsibility to inform faculty and staff of any accommodations that they may need to know about. The Accessibility Resources staff will explain in more detail how (and when) to share this Accommodation Memo with others.

For more information, please visit the website for Accessibility Resources at Student Life:

www.buffalo.edu/studentlife/who-we-are/departments/accessibility.html

SEX DISCRIMINATION & SEXUAL HARASSMENT

The University at Buffalo is committed to ensuring that all members of our community can work and learn in a safe environment, free of all forms of discrimination and sexual harassment, including sexual assault, domestic and dating violence and stalking.

For my part, I am committed to preserving a classroom and university environment in which each student can contribute and learn free from discrimination, harassment, and sexual misconduct. I am also committed to supporting survivors and those impacted by intimate partner violence, attempted or completed sexual assault, harassment, coercion, stalking, and so on.

Please note that all University at Buffalo faculty members are required to report disclosures of sexual misconduct to the Office of Equity, Diversity and Inclusion (EDI). This means that if a student discloses an incident of sexual misconduct to me, I am required to share that with EDI. EDI, in turn, reach out to provide support, resources, and the option to meet. EDI will keep all information private, and will only proceed with an investigation with the consent of the student, or if there is a risk to the health or safety to the reporting student or others if the university does not take action.

For more information, please contact the University at Buffalo's Title IX Coordinator at 716-645-2266, or visit their website:

www.buffalo.edu/equity/obtaining-assistance/sex-discrimination-and-sexual-harassment.html

For confidential assistance, you may also contact a Crisis Services Campus Advocate at 716-796-4399.

SUPPORT FOR STUDENTS' HEALTH & WELLNESS

Take care of yourself. Of course, I know this may be easier said than done, but please do your best to maintain a healthy lifestyle by eating well, exercising, avoiding drugs and alcohol, getting enough sleep, and taking some time to relax. This will help you achieve your goals and better cope with stress.

If you are struggling with strained relationships, anxiety, high levels of stress, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, health concerns, or unwanted sexual experiences, please know that you are not alone. All of us benefit from support during times of struggle. Indeed, there are many helpful resources available, and an important part of the university experience is learning how to ask for help. Asking sooner rather than later is almost always helpful.

Counseling, Health Services, and Health Promotion are here to help. To schedule an appointment with a counselor, visit their office in 120 Richmond Quad or call 716-645-2720.

If you or someone you know is feeling suicidal or in danger of self-harm, call the University Police to speak to the counselor on call at 716-645-2222 or the Erie County Crisis Services 24-hour hot-line at 716-834-3131. You may also find support via the Crisis Text Line by texting "GOT5" to 741-741.

If the situation is life threatening, call 911.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Academic integrity is embodied by commitments to honesty, trust, fairness, respect, diligence, and rigor in the pursuit of knowledge. As a student in this class, academic integrity means following all the directions for class activities, completing all quizzes and unit exams on your own without outside assistance, and seeking help from me whenever you are struggling. This is laid out in the academic honor code (posted online) for this course. You are also expected to sign an honor agreement (also posted online) to adhere to that code.

In this class, the typical violation of academic integrity is cheating on quizzes and unit exams. Common examples of this include copying the answers of a classmate, finding solutions online, and using unauthorized artificial intelligence (AI) tools for assistance.

Quizzes and unit exams assess your progress in developing your proficiency with the course material along with the extent to which you are achieving this course's learning outcomes. As such, I expect you to do all the quizzes and exams on your own without assistance. Naturally, I also expect that you are not helping others with their quizzes and exams either. If anyone does ask you for help, just send them to me. I'll be happy to assist them.

In short, all quizzes and unit exams are closed to collaboration. Furthermore, please do not try to find assistance online or by using artificial intelligence (AI) tools.

The good news is that all quizzes and exams are open-book and open-notes, giving you the resources to perform at your very best. You also have the option to use philosopher's stones for extensions if you need some extra time to prepare. Finally, if you are ever struggling with the quizzes, exams, or anything else in this course, please do not hesitate to reach out to me. I'll gladly help get you back on track!

To assist in reminding you of your obligations, every module quiz and unit exam requires you to complete a Commitment to Academic Integrity Pledge. Please remember that module quizzes and unit exams without a properly filled out Commitment to Academic Integrity Pledge will automatically earn 0 philosophy experience points.

While I treat violations of academic integrity on a case-by-case basis, I carefully follow the University at Buffalo's process of consultative resolution. According to this process, when I suspect an academic integrity violation, I first meet with the student for an explanation. If, after that meeting, I remain convinced that there is a violation, I will report it to the Chair of the Philosophy Department, the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and the Academic Integrity Office. Doing all this protects the student's right to appeal.

Beyond that, I typically impose a sanction that exceeds the penalty of not having done the work at all. For instance, the sanction for cheating on a unit exam is usually a deduction of philosophy experience points. Again, the student retains the right to appeal any such decision.

In particularly severe cases, or when the student has committed previous academic integrity infractions, there may also be further penalties imposed by the Academic Integrity Office. For more information, please consult their website:

If you ever find yourself tempted to violate these standards of academic integrity, please seek an alternative course of action. Use a philosopher's stone for an extension or turn in partially completed work. I assure you that the impact will be far more generous in these ways.

Remember, there are many ways to earn philosophy experience points in this class, so doing poorly on an activity or two need not prevent you from doing well in the course.

THERE'S AN EPIDEMIC SPREADING PHILOSOPHY

A group of five teenagers (three boys and two girls) standing against a weathered wall. They are dressed in casual clothing like hoodies and sweaters.

1 in 5 teenagers will experiment with philosophy.

A man in a green sweater points at a laptop screen. A woman in a beige cardigan stands behind him, looking concerned. Another man in a red and white checkered shirt is in the foreground, looking at the screen.

“Are you googling thought experiments again?”

A man in a red and white checkered shirt and a woman in a blue shirt are sitting on a park bench, engaged in conversation.

“Do you want to end up a professor like your sister?”

A woman in a red sweater is crying with her hand on her forehead. Another woman in a patterned jacket is sitting next to her, looking at an open book and offering comfort.

Thinking is
to despair.

A close-up shot of a woman with blonde hair, resting her chin on her hand and looking thoughtfully off-camera.

“At first, it’s just Plato, but then it’s Nietzsche!”
